

Jimmy in IE Conference @ Shanghai, 30 June – 04 July 2014

IMAGINE'14

- Sandpit (new type of workshop event for 2014)
- Took form of 'Challenge' to write a 28 word SFP about future of Intelligent Environments
- 24 entries received
- Joint top 3 were:
  - "I have traced down all your respire: infant cries, juvenile smiles, elderly sighs. Now you are (all) gone – leaving me to carry on and wonder why." (Tiina Kymäläinen, VTT Technical Research Centre, Finland)
  - "Jimmy, please write me a micro-SFP and, while you are at it, a business model too! Jimmy says "Science Fiction does not compute!" (Davy Preuveneres), Katholieke Universiteit, Belgium)
  - "Jimmy, don't do that!" shouted Lizzie. Jimmy's emotochromic skin turned red through embarrassment. "I envy people, able to hide their feelings." thought Jimmy, turning green with envy" (Gordon Hunter, Kingston University, UK)
- Each awarded an Intel Prize (mini-Jimmy)
- Complete results available at: <http://www.creative-science.org/activities/imagine14/>
- Main outcomes
  - Micro-SFPs great way to engage people in thinking about the future of Intelligent Environments
  - Provides a quick but engaging focus of conversations over coffee and lunch
  - Will repeat at IE'15

Joint Top 3 Awards

“Jimmy, don’t do that!” shouted Lizzie. Jimmy’s emotochromic skin turned red through embarrassment. “I envy people, able to hide their feelings.” thought Jimmy, turning green with envy” (Gordon Hunter, Kingston University, UK)

“I have traced down all your respire: infant cries, juvenile smiles, elderly sights. Now you are (all) gone – leaving me to carry on and wonder why.” (Tiina Kymäläinen, VTT Technical Research Centre, Finland)

“Jimmy, please write me a micro-SFP and, while you are at it, a business model too! Jimmy says “Science Fiction does not compute!” (Davy Preuveneers), Katholieke Universiteit, Belgium)

Thanks to all the micro-SFP writers who made the event happen!

- Find their micro-SFPs on <http://www.imajenation.org/>

